He brings fresh insights into the universal themes of family and faith that transcend religion and nationality, speaking directly to the human condition. About this Haggadah: Not another Haggadah! Yes, another Haggadah ... because the American Jewish home need it. When Conan O'Brien asked Ellen Barkin about her Pesach Seder she described her family's Seders as, "Foul mouthed, shouting matches." At one, her father threw the brisket across the table at her mother! We can all do better than that! And to do it, we have to make the Seder relevant. The Un-Haggadah does just that! The text is the traditional one but the commentary speaks to the contemporary American Jew and relates to subjects that we read of in the newspapers and experience at home. Try it ... you'll like it!
