On paper, Jerrod Brookshire is the most eligible bachelor in Texas. His blonde hair and steel blue eyes compliment his perfectly fit frame. His charming conversational skills flow easily from his 172 point IQ. The mansion, the millions, and the flashy Porsche were just icing on the cake. Every single woman in Dallas wants to land him, blind to his vicious dark side and the trail of dead bodies he unleashes monthly. When Jerrod randomly selects your number there is no charming conversation, just an ominous warning. You, or one of your relatives will have 31 days to die. His unusual style of egotistical killing pits his resources and decades of hunting skills against the best and brightest law enforcement officers around. The best chance Dallas has is the deceptively capable detective Austin Moore, who has plenty of blood on his own hands. Unflinchingly gritty and gruesome, "31 Days to Die" delivers a no-holds barred race to stop the highest profile serial killer the world has ever known... before he retires a legend and vanishes forever.
